

Cherl Crews

Artist, Writer, Educator

Cherl Crews is an artist, writer, and educator who received a BA degree in Visual Arts and photography and is fluent in various art mediums. Crews worked as a graphic artist for over a decade before turning her focus to environmental arts and education where she found a deep passion for mixed media and re-purposed art. Also known as Living Sky in the artist community she now combines her talents of visual expression and written word to promote sustainability, mindfulness, and harmony with nature through education, awareness and hands on expression.

Crews is the Founder and Director of the Living Sky Foundation, an educational organization in support of the living arts, and the Creative Director and founding member of the Sperryville ARTist Cooperative.

“The artist embraces what others only dare to see”
