

Sara Adams

Sara creates earthenware and stoneware pottery by hand building. She loves to feel the clay take shape from her hands. She glows with satisfaction when someone says they want to live with one of her creations. Sara took workshops with Jeanne Drevas which is where the four River District Potters converged; Jeanne inspired our colorful pots and sparked our creativity. Sara is currently one of the four potters at River District Potters in Sperryville, VA and also works at Guy Mason Ceramics in DC; she also worked at Glen Echo Pottery. Sara learned how to throw pots on the wheel from Susan Jacobs at Eastern Market Pottery, DC. To expand her skills and ideas, Sara participated in area workshops conducted by Jeanne Drevas, Michael Hough, Emily Schroeder, Liz Zlot Summerfield, Brent Thomas, Jayne Shatz, Lana Wilson, Shanna Fliegel and Denise Kupiszewski.
