

Kerrie Mullany

After graduating from the Corcoran College of Art + Design, Kerrie Mullany's first job was working on the restoration of the 100 year old scraffito designs on the walls of the Hotel Washington, in DC. Soon after, she and her husband, Tom Mullany, formed Mullany Art Studios, where she has worked for over 25 years as a decorative painter. In her personal work, she is currently working on small decorative pieces using colored venetian plaster.
