

Colby Allred

Based out of southern Maine and Rappahanock County, VA, Colby Allred works primarily with clay to create forms that echo his surroundings. He received his BFA from Montana State University in Bozeman and has spent the last decade living and working in rural areas across the United States. He draws inspiration from the local culture, industries, and landscapes that embody the essence of these rural spaces.