

Jo Levine:

Jo Levine recently returned to the serious pursuit of photography after a successful legal career with a federal consumer protection agency. Within a short period, her work has been selected for and received awards in several juried regional and national competitions.

Jo specializes in fine-art photographs of nature and architecture. She particularly values photography for its ability to capture small details and transitory moments of beauty that might otherwise pass unnoticed.

Jo lives in Washington, D.C. and Sperryville, Virginia.
