

Julie Faloon

A former resident of Rappahannock County, Julie has worked in multiple mediums and is currently enjoying Linocut printmaking. Her current works are informed and inspired by the natural environment. Her work can be seen in the “130 Celebrating 130” collection, a Franklin Print Group project celebrating 130 years of women’s suffrage in New Zealand, housed in the Auckland Museum archives and Christchurch Art Gallery.