

Molly Dodge

Molly Dodge is a mixed-media artist whose work bridges the whimsical and the wild. Her photographs, and paintings of stylized animals sit alongside sculptural pieces made from bones, branches, and other organic forms. As a conservationist who has traveled internationally, Molly draws inspiration from diverse landscapes and wildlife, infusing her art with reverence for the interconnectedness and fragility of the natural world. Her creativity also extends into the culinary arts, where she transforms the bounty of her garden into small-batch jellies, jams, relishes, and pies.
