

Ellen Zimmerman is a visual storyteller spinning everyday moments into magic. Like an alchemist, she finds tiny jewels in nature, then alters them to create new realities infused with hints of spirituality and dreams. Just as she enters these fantasy landscapes with an open heart, she invites viewers to step inside and discover the sacred within the everyday. Ultimately, her work is an offering: a series of reverent spaces that explore faith, wonder, and the vastness of what we cannot fully know. Prominent fine art photographer / journalist / educator Susan Burnstine says of her work: "We don't see the world like this. You show us the world like this." Ellen's photography has been displayed in galleries in the United States, Canada, England, and Europe, as well as in ICM Photography Magazine, West Trade Review, Digital Camera World, Canvas Rebel and Bold Journey. Ellen's first book is Vessels of Light: inspirations from a spiritual landscape, a photopoetry book developed with Cantor Karen Webber.
